NEW BUSINESS

The Board discussed what items will need to be addressed during the Workshops

PUBLIC COMMENT

Ken Adams, with Pace Services, agreed with the Board that they had a lot of items that needed to be addressed and this will be a time-consuming task. He feels that the term "Electrician" should be changed to Electrical Contractor because this is what the licensees are and that there should be several classifications of that should be added to the Journeyman license consisting of a Commercial Journeyman Electrician, Residential Journeyman Electrician, a Journeyman Apprentice, a Journeyman Pre-Apprentice, as well as a Limited Licenses specifically for low voltage.

Mr. Adams added that there should be a discussion on the reciprocity requirements for these Journeyman applicants and that the Board should look to the rules and regulations that Colorado has in place for this license type as a guideline.

Ed Capodanno, with ABC Delaware, stated that he has already forwarded his recommendations for the Board to consider to Director Collins and added that the Board should also look at what rules and regulations should apply to the 90-day employees that are in a probationary period.

Dan Delcollo, with Delcollo Electric, stated that he has a large service department and this new licensing will affect him greatly.
